

Comments, Questions, Connections

What do you notice?

As you read, put sticky notes next to passages you notice. These might be places where you understand something new about the reading or they might just be places where you like how the words sound. After you have finished reading, go back and look at the places you marked. You might want to write on the sticky note to remind yourself of why you marked that place.

What do you wonder?

Write two or three questions you have about your reading.

How do you connect?

Are there any things in this reading that remind you of your own life? Of other things you have read or know about? Write them here and explain each connection briefly.