Classroom Lesson Plan 7

Reading Workshop

Teacher: Flora Tyler, Picacho Middle School, Las Cruces, New Mexico

Grade Level: Sixth

Topic: Conducting a reading workshop

Materials Needed:

- Self-selected reading books for each student (see the Teacher Tool “Picacho Picks” for a list of books Ms. Tyler’s students identified as “favorites”)
- Student Activity Sheets:
  - Creating a Literary Poster and Assessment Criteria (see Ms. Tyler’s handout for this assignment for suggestions)
  - Literary Presentations: Guidelines and Possibilities (you may wish to use this handout to offer students guidelines for this project)
- Writer’s notebook for each student
- Art materials
- Reading workshop binder (for suggestions about how to set up this binder, see the Teacher Tool “Reading Workshop Binder”)

Background Information:

By the time of year when this class was recorded, students were familiar with the classroom rules and procedures for readers’ workshop. They are working on their individual goals, preparing literature log entries in their writer’s notebooks and developing both a literary poster and a presentation based on a novel they have read during the school year.

In addition, students have been taught about Howard Gardner’s work with multiple intelligences. References to these intelligences are made and connections to ways students use their intelligences are reinforced regularly. Students are asked to consider ways they can use several of their intelligences when preparing their literature presentations.

For Teacher Tools and Student Activity Sheets, go to the Making Meaning in Literature Library Web site at www.learner.org/envisioningliterature
Lesson Objectives:

Students will:

- increase their reading and writing skills.
- set and meet individual reading goals.
- choose individual literature to read.
- read and enjoy the literature they read.
- demonstrate knowledge of literary elements.
- share insights about their reading with their classmates.

Expected Products From Lesson:

- Progress on individual reading goals
- Response entries in writer’s notebook
- Literary poster: “Creating a Literary Poster” offers directions for students and assessment criteria for this project.
- Literary presentation: “Literary Presentations: Guidelines and Possibilities” is a handout for students that offers ideas they may wish to use for their literary presentation.

Instructional Strategies Implemented:

- Collaborative learning
- Students sharing books and writing pieces with each other
- Teacher conferences
- Students modeling finished reading projects

Collaborative Structure of Class:

Students are grouped heterogeneously. During the class period, some may be seated alone working on a project or completing a written response. Some may be in the reading area, choosing books, or reading independently. Some may be in designated areas for peer conferencing, or a group may be gathered in the presentation area with the teacher.

Lesson Procedures/Activities:

- Mini-lesson
- Status-of-the-class
- Reading workshop
- Group sharing

For Teacher Tools and Student Activity Sheets, go to the Making Meaning in Literature Library Web site at www.learner.org/envisioningliterature
Follow-Up or Culminating Activities:
Students will complete a literary poster and a literary presentation on a novel they have completed during the year. These will be shared and videotaped by other students.

Assessment:
Students may be assessed holistically on a daily basis through:
• preparation and participation (successful meeting of self-determined goals) and
• writer's notebook entries.

The following activities might receive scaled (or graded) evaluation:
• literary poster and
• literature presentation.