“Six Room Poem” From Multigenre Project on Marcus Allen

32 Takes the field

A great player with his cleats dripping with mudd dragged his aching bones off the football field.
running all over the defense.

The bright lights stream down around him.
running all over the defense.

Fans are cheering, coaches are yelling, with broad casters chatting in the background
running all over the defense

How did he get here? Where's he going?
Has he broken any records?
running all over the defense

Nervous and anxious feelings start the game and proud and exhausted feelings end the game, what a rush of emotions
running all over the defense.
