

Jenny Beasley

Jenny Beasley has taught language arts at Meece Middle School in Somerset, Kentucky for the past nine years. She is presently teaching sixth graders. Jenny earned a B.A. in public relations/journalism from Auburn University in Alabama and then returned to Auburn several years later to complete her M.E. in elementary education.

Jenny is very active professionally. At Meece Middle, she has served as language arts chair and Writing Cluster Leader. She also has been part of the School Portfolio Assessment Team and was the chair for Meece's school-wide review, conducted in 1998-99 by the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges. After completing the Eastern Kentucky Writing Project's Summer Institute in 1995, she spent three years serving as the EKV Writing Project co-director. The recipient of several teaching awards, Jenny has conducted professional development workshops on writing instruction at the state and national level.